

A Prayer for the Swift Return of Kyabje Chime Rinpoche by Kyabje Shechen Rabjam Rinpoche

Oṃ svasti.

I supplicate the Guru, the all-pervading lord of all families,
The great being who embodies and yet transcends all—
All the oceanic hosts of victorious ones dwelling in the pure lands of the ten directions,
Śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, heroes, and yoginīs.

The dharmadhātu's clear light, ultimate bodhicitta,
The all-pervading, unconditioned source of all—
As you rest evenly and unwaveringly in this great fortress of primordial freedom and natural immortality,
O protector, please consider us.

The pledge and oath of the victorious ones and their children
Is to provide relief to unliberated, wandering beings and lead them all to buddhahood.
As you joyfully pledged to care for infinite beings until they are all liberated,
Please continue to care for and guide the beings of this world!

O protector, exalted through the splendour of your family and qualities,
Your aspiration and vow as unchanging and eternal as a swastika.
As long as the armour of perfecting, ripening, and purifying holds firm,
How could you tire of manifesting again for the glory of the teachings and beings?

With the power of the truth of the Three Jewels as vast as the sky,
Blessings as radiant as the sun and the splendour of a brilliant moon,¹
And, through your unparalleled compassionate aspiration,
O protector, may your sacred display ripen for the teachings and beings.

When the supreme incarnation Radha Chime Yungdrung Rinpoche passed into the peaceful expanse, his disciples requested a supplication prayer for his swift return. Accordingly, I, one bearing the name of the Seventh Shechen Rabjam, wrote this on the twenty-sixth day of the second month of the Fire Horse year (13 April 2026). May it prove meaningful!
